March 2010

The President's _____ Line

Hard to believe that it is March already, warming weather, good hatches and of course the club banquet. Its time to find out who will be the Fly Tier and the Fly Fisher of the Year for 2009. No matter who wins these coveted awards they will be the most deserving among a group of club members. Each can take pride in the work they performed for the club and are just as equally entitled to win. Hopefully you will be at the banquet when I have the pleasure to present these awards.

Last month I listed the standing committees for the club in 2010. It's quite a large list and one that I'm proud to have been partly responsible for. Hopefully these committees will be enlarged and continue to help to educate the membership. They can further fly fishing and provide the necessary support for conserving the resources and helping area youth learn more about the great outdoors, especially fly fishing. Fly Fishing is more than fishing; it is a true art form from casting to tying some of those elaborate flies that we all tie. I know I have fully enjoyed the whole experience of Fly Fishing for the past 40 years.

When I accepted the president position for 2010 it was on the stipulation that I would step aside after the banquet and turn over the office to Dick Recchia our current Vice President. This I will do effective March 31st. I ask that you support Dick as your new President. I know he will be a great asset to the club. I will remain on the board in the Past Presidents position.

I want to thank all of you for your great support and willingness to step up and make Shasta Trinity Fly Fishers the great club that it has become. I also must thank the board of directors for their great support; they are the real workhorses of the club. I want to thank my wife for putting up with me spending the hours necessary to do the job as your President for the last 15 months. (Darn here come all the chores I haven't done).

See you on the river!

$11 Million Water Bond on November Ballot

Last fall, the Governor and state policy makers passed a proposed $11 million Water Bond that will appear on this November's ballot. The measure is designed to increase the reliability of water deliveries and at the same time restore the delta ecosystem for plants, animals, and fish.

Under the bond measure, a council will be formed to develop a "management plan" for the estuary. Further, new statewide conservation and ground water monitoring mandates are to be implemented, and penalties for failure to report water diversions increased. Management of California's water resources will continue to be a very complicated issue and decisions regarding wildlife habitat and water pumping will still require approvals by the various state and federal agencies. In addition, while the state Water Resources Control Board will have the authority to set freshwater flows into the delta, the agency will not be required to follow its own guidelines when reviewing permits to divert water.

I will continue to keep club members informed as this issue unfolds.

Judge Rejects Delay in Delta Pumping Restrictions

On February 10, 2010, U.S. District Judge Oliver W. Wanger rejected a request by west valley agricultural interests to delay a new set of water-pumping restrictions in the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta. The ruling means one of five delta pumps operated by the federal government will be shut down. The action is being taken to protect the delta smelt, a fish listed as threatened under the Endangered Species Act. Representatives from the Westlands Water District stated they will seek another emergency order from Wagner.

U.S. Sen. Feinstein Bill to Reduce Endangered Species Act Protections

Senator Feinstein has stated her intention to submit an amendment to a jobs bill that would remove restrictions in water diversions for Endangered Species and increase Delta pumping to benefit farms in the San Joaquin Valley. This proposal has generated strong reaction from concerned environmental groups and fellow Democrats. For the past two years, the state, agriculture, and environmental groups have been working towards the development of a conservation plan for the Delta. This coalition helped pass key water legislation last year and is studying plans for a canal, tunnel or other form of water conveyance for the Delta. The plan is designed to reduce conflicts over fisheries while producing reliable water supplies for other uses. Should Feinstein's amendment pass, it could derail this effort, leading to continued conflicts over water usage.

Klamath River Restoration/Hydropower Agreement

On February 18, 2010, after 7 years of difficult work, the Klamath River Settlement agreements were signed. The agreement represents the largest dam removal project ever undertaken. Though there remains ongoing debate concerning the timing and ability of the agreements to achieve their goals, this action is regarded as a significant victory for fisheries and local communities.

Future Conservation Projects

Word from the Fish and Game is that they intend to focus their resources this year on the various wild trout programs. While F&G staff's are still reviewing the various programs, they expect to need volunteers to conduct field and office work. I will be "soliciting" for volunteers at the March meeting or you can contact me at cr8smith@gmail.com.

KIDS FISH DAY AT MT. SHASTA HATCHERY

In 2010, The Kids Fish Days will be held on June 19th, July 17th and August 21st. "Volunteers needed"

Contact Earl Johnston for info:

Nor Cal Sport, Boat and RV Show – Shasta District Fairgrounds
Friday, Saturday, and Sunday - March 5, 6, and 7

The Shasta Trinity Fly Fishers will have a booth again this year at the sport show. We get a good amount of exposure and new members from the show and could use some help in staffing the booth.

To those who have already volunteered to help, thank you for your time. However we still have some open slots that need to be filled.

Volunteers will demonstrate fly tying and show youngsters how to tie a wooly bugger. It doesn't matter what your skill level is, if you can tie a wooly bugger, we can use your help. When you're not helping a child, you can tie whatever you want to fill your own box. The club will supply all materials for the buggers.

We need people on the following days and times:

Saturday, March 6 th	Sunday, March 7 th
1-4 PM - 1 person	10 AM-1 PM - 1 person
4-7 PM - 1 person	1-4 PM – 3 persons
	4-5 PM – 3 persons

The reason for the one-hour shift on Sunday is that these people will also help take down the booth at 5 PM and get it back to the storage locker.

If you can help, send me an email or call me and leave a message if I'm not here.

March Membership Meeting - Wednesday March 10 – 7:00 PM Redding Library

Hogan Brown Returns to Shasta Trinity Fly Fishers

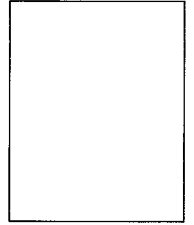

After a couple of year's absence we have Northern California native Hogan Brown returning to the club and giving his latest program to us. Hogan will be doing his "Fly Tying Designs" presentation, which should be of great interest to the entire membership.

Hogan is another North State fly fishing treasure that grew up on the banks of the North Fork and Lower Yuba Rivers. He has chased trout and steelhead in California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, and the Canadian Provinces. Far from being a trout snob, Hogan has spent considerable time fishing for large and smallmouth bass as well as carp in the Lower Sacramento River. He is one of Northern California's leading innovators in warm water fly fishing. He has a passion for tying flies and has developed a unique approach to tying bass, carp, steelhead, and trout flies, which blends many different styles in creating his own innovative flies. Hogan is a contract tier for Idylwilde Fly Company and has over 24 of his pattern designs out through them.

When not pursuing trout, bass, carp, tying flies, and guiding he teaches at Hamilton Union High School.
